

Every bar ends at the ceiling. The colour is how far each patient actually travelled.

One bar per patient (n = 78), sorted by admission score. The bar runs from the Barthel on admission to the maximum of 100, so its length is exactly the margin that patient had left to recover. The filled part is the ground actually regained by discharge.

